WH EEEEEEE!

GET THE ROPE, LUIS! WE WILL TIE HIM TO A SNUBBING POST! I HAVE A LOT OF TIME TO BREAK THIS ONE!

EARS PICKED UP THE BLOWS LUIS WAS

GO SAFELY, STALLION! EL CABALLO WILL GO TO PREESON FOR A LONG, LONG TIME! I, LUIS, SAY IT WEEL BE SO! ADIOS, STALLION!

GOT A GRUDGE?

"In about a month your arm will be as good as ever," said Doctor Howard Clement. "Mother Nature knows how to take care of things, provided man helps a bit. So I have immobilized your right arm in that plaster of paris cast. The bone will knit. Then we remove the cast. Simple isn't it?"

"No," snapped back sheriff Max Bollin. "You forget that's my shooting arm. I'm no good with my left. What am I going to do?"

"You should have thought of that before you tried to move that big log from the barn all by yourself. It's no wonder it didn't go right through that thick skull of yours. Next time ask for help. What's the matter with you, Max? Got a dose of too much pride in your system? You better do some clear thinking now. I figure you and the town of Rawey have a nice problem to face."

"As soon as the Gillin boys hear about this, everything is just going to break loose in town," admitted the Sheriff. "They will ride in and look for an excuse to finish me off. Then they can get even with Jim Rickard."

"That's sound thinking," conceded the doctor. "I guess the entire town knows that for the past year it has been you that has saved Jim Rickard from the Gillin boys. When he bought the Big Card Palace, he said he was going to run it as an honest place. So out they went. Just burning for a chance to get back?"

"What do I do?" pleaded the Sheriff. "I am going to uphold law and order. But I do need some help."

"Swallow your pride," suggested Dr. Howard Clement. "Go ask Tom Nash to be your deputy. With him wearing a badge, I figure the Gillin boys will decide the three of them want to stay healthy."

Sheriff Max Bollin didn't answer that suggestion. He had no liking for Tom Nash. True, his daughter Carrie liked the young man. But a girl of nineteen doesn't exactly see a man with the same eyes that her father uses to judge people.

"Tom is a swell fellow," she would tell her father. "You don't like him because his folks raise sheep. And your father raised cattle. And from what I can figure out, cattlemen don't like sheep men. Doesn't make any sense to me."

The upholder of the law in the town of Rawey left the office of the man who had given him some sound advice. He walked slowly to his office. To his surprise, Tom Nash was waiting for him.

"What can I do for you?" asked the Sheriff.

"Other way 'round," smiled the young man. "Carrie told me what happened to you. Let's be sensible about things. You need a deputy for about a month till that arm heals. Don't tell me the town hasn't any money. I'll take a dollar for a month's pay."

Sheriff Max Bollin swallowed his pride. He took a deputy's badge from his desk and handed it to the young man.

"It means trouble," he told him.

"The law is there for trouble," grinned the new deputy. "Anyway I'll be on the side of my future father-in-law."

Pedro Valesques had quickly saddled his horse and rode out of town when he heard about the accident. Three hours of hard riding brought him to a cabin on the south side of Mt. Belasco. The three Gillin boys called it their headquarters. He told the news to Joe who gave him a twenty dollar gold piece for the work. Then Joe spoke to his two other brothers, Lem and Sam.

"If it's true, then we just walk into town. Who is going to stop us?"

"But it could be a sort of trap," counselled Lem. "That Sheriff is got a head on his houlder. I'm not so hot about evening things up with Jim. We have all the money we need. Let's get out of here and head for Wyoming. Why look for trouble? Nobody knows it was us three who held up the train and got that bag of gold coins."

"I don't want ever to think that one of my brothers turned yellow," snarled Joe. "I say we ride into town. That's all we do. We walk into the Big Card Palace. We don't even wear our guns. We aren't looking for trouble. What do you think I am? A big fool. Shoot down the Sheriff and we would be hunted like wild animals over this country until we were caught. And they would hang us."

"You have something in that head of yours," said Sam. "We ride into town tomorrow."

When Pedro Valesques returned to town he went to spend the gold piece he had received. He threw it on the bar and ordered a drink for himself. Jim Rickard picked up the new coin and changed it for silver dollars. Tom Nash had observed the coin. When Pedro left, Jim Rickard flipped the coin to Tom Nash.

"You been looking as though you wanted it. What for?"

The young deputy examined both sides. Then he took some bills from his pocket and counted them out.

"There's twenty dollars in paper money. This is evidence, Jim. I was reading some of the wanted notices in Max's office and came across the one about the big reward for the capture of the men who hed up the train outside Junction Point. They got a bag with 1000 new twenty dollar gold coins. First to go out with the new "P" mint mark. This one has it. So it must be one of the stolen coins."

Half an hour later, Pedro found himself inside the sheriff's office. The deputy wanted to know about the coin and Pedro refused to talk.

"I will turn you over to the United States Secret Service," said Tom Nash. "They are in charge of this investigation. You held up the train?"

Finally Pedro told everything. But the Sheriff was very curious.

"How come that Joe would permit the coin to get into circulation? It's a dead give away."

"He wasn't thinking of what he was doing," pointed out Tom Nash. "He wanted to pay Pedro for the information and gave him the coin. Chances are that even now he doesn't realize what has happened. We lock up Pedro for safekeeping. Send a telegram to Marshal Winston and he'll contact the United States Secret Service. They will work fast. I bet we get action within twenty four hours."

The three Gillin boys waited till the end of the week to ride into town. No sooner had they departed from their cabin, when five men hiding in the dense brush, went into the cabin.

And they began a systematic search. They knew what they were looking for. Along the road to the town they were observed by other men.

The three Gillin boys got off their horses outside of Jim's place. They entered and saw the Sheriff who greeted them.

"A pleasure to see you three. Too bad I can't shake hands with you. I guess you want to make up with Jim. What's the use of bearing a grudge all your life?"

Joe was no fool. He hadn't figured the sheriff would react that way to their entrance into town. What was the sheriff up to? Joe felt a bit uneasy. They weren't wearing their gun belts. But each had a derringer concealed in the sleeve for an emergency in case fighting broke out.

"I guess you are right," said Joe with a forced smile on his face. "If a man holds a grudge it can affect him. He spends a lot of time figuring on how to get even. With a bit of sense, he would forget it all. So I say right here to Jim that we were all wrong. We will now leave as peacefully as we came."

The two other brothers sensed something had happened. They couldn't figure what. But they would follow the lead of their older brother. As they turned to the door they spotted Tom Nash with several men behind him.

"Heard every word you fellows said," commented the young deputy. "But how about the grudge you fellows have against yourselves?"

"What grudge?" demanded Joe Gillin.

"I claim that a fellow has a grudge against himself when he goes outside the law," explained Tom Nash. "Like the day you three did when you held up the train to get those gold coins. We found the bag with them underneath the floor of your cabin. And the messenger you fellows shot died. So you face also a charge of murder in the first degree."

They tried to fight it out but they were no match for the overwhelming odds they faced. The law men couldn't have killed them but only have wounded the Gillin boys. They would stand trial and later pay with their lives for the crime.

"Got a grudge?" is now the favorite expression of Sheriff Max Bollin. He seems to be a very happy sheriff. And why not? His daughter really got the catch of the season. She married the youngest man ever to be appointed a United States Marshal. And that reward money was used to build a home and buy a ranch.

"Got a grudge?" says the sheriff. "If I had been fool enough not to swallow my pride, things might have been different all ways around."

BLACK FURY

THE ORPHANED COLT DIDN'T HAVE A CHANCE IN THOSE HILLS. HE WAS HELPLESS... AND THERE WERE MOUNTAIN LIONS PROWLING...

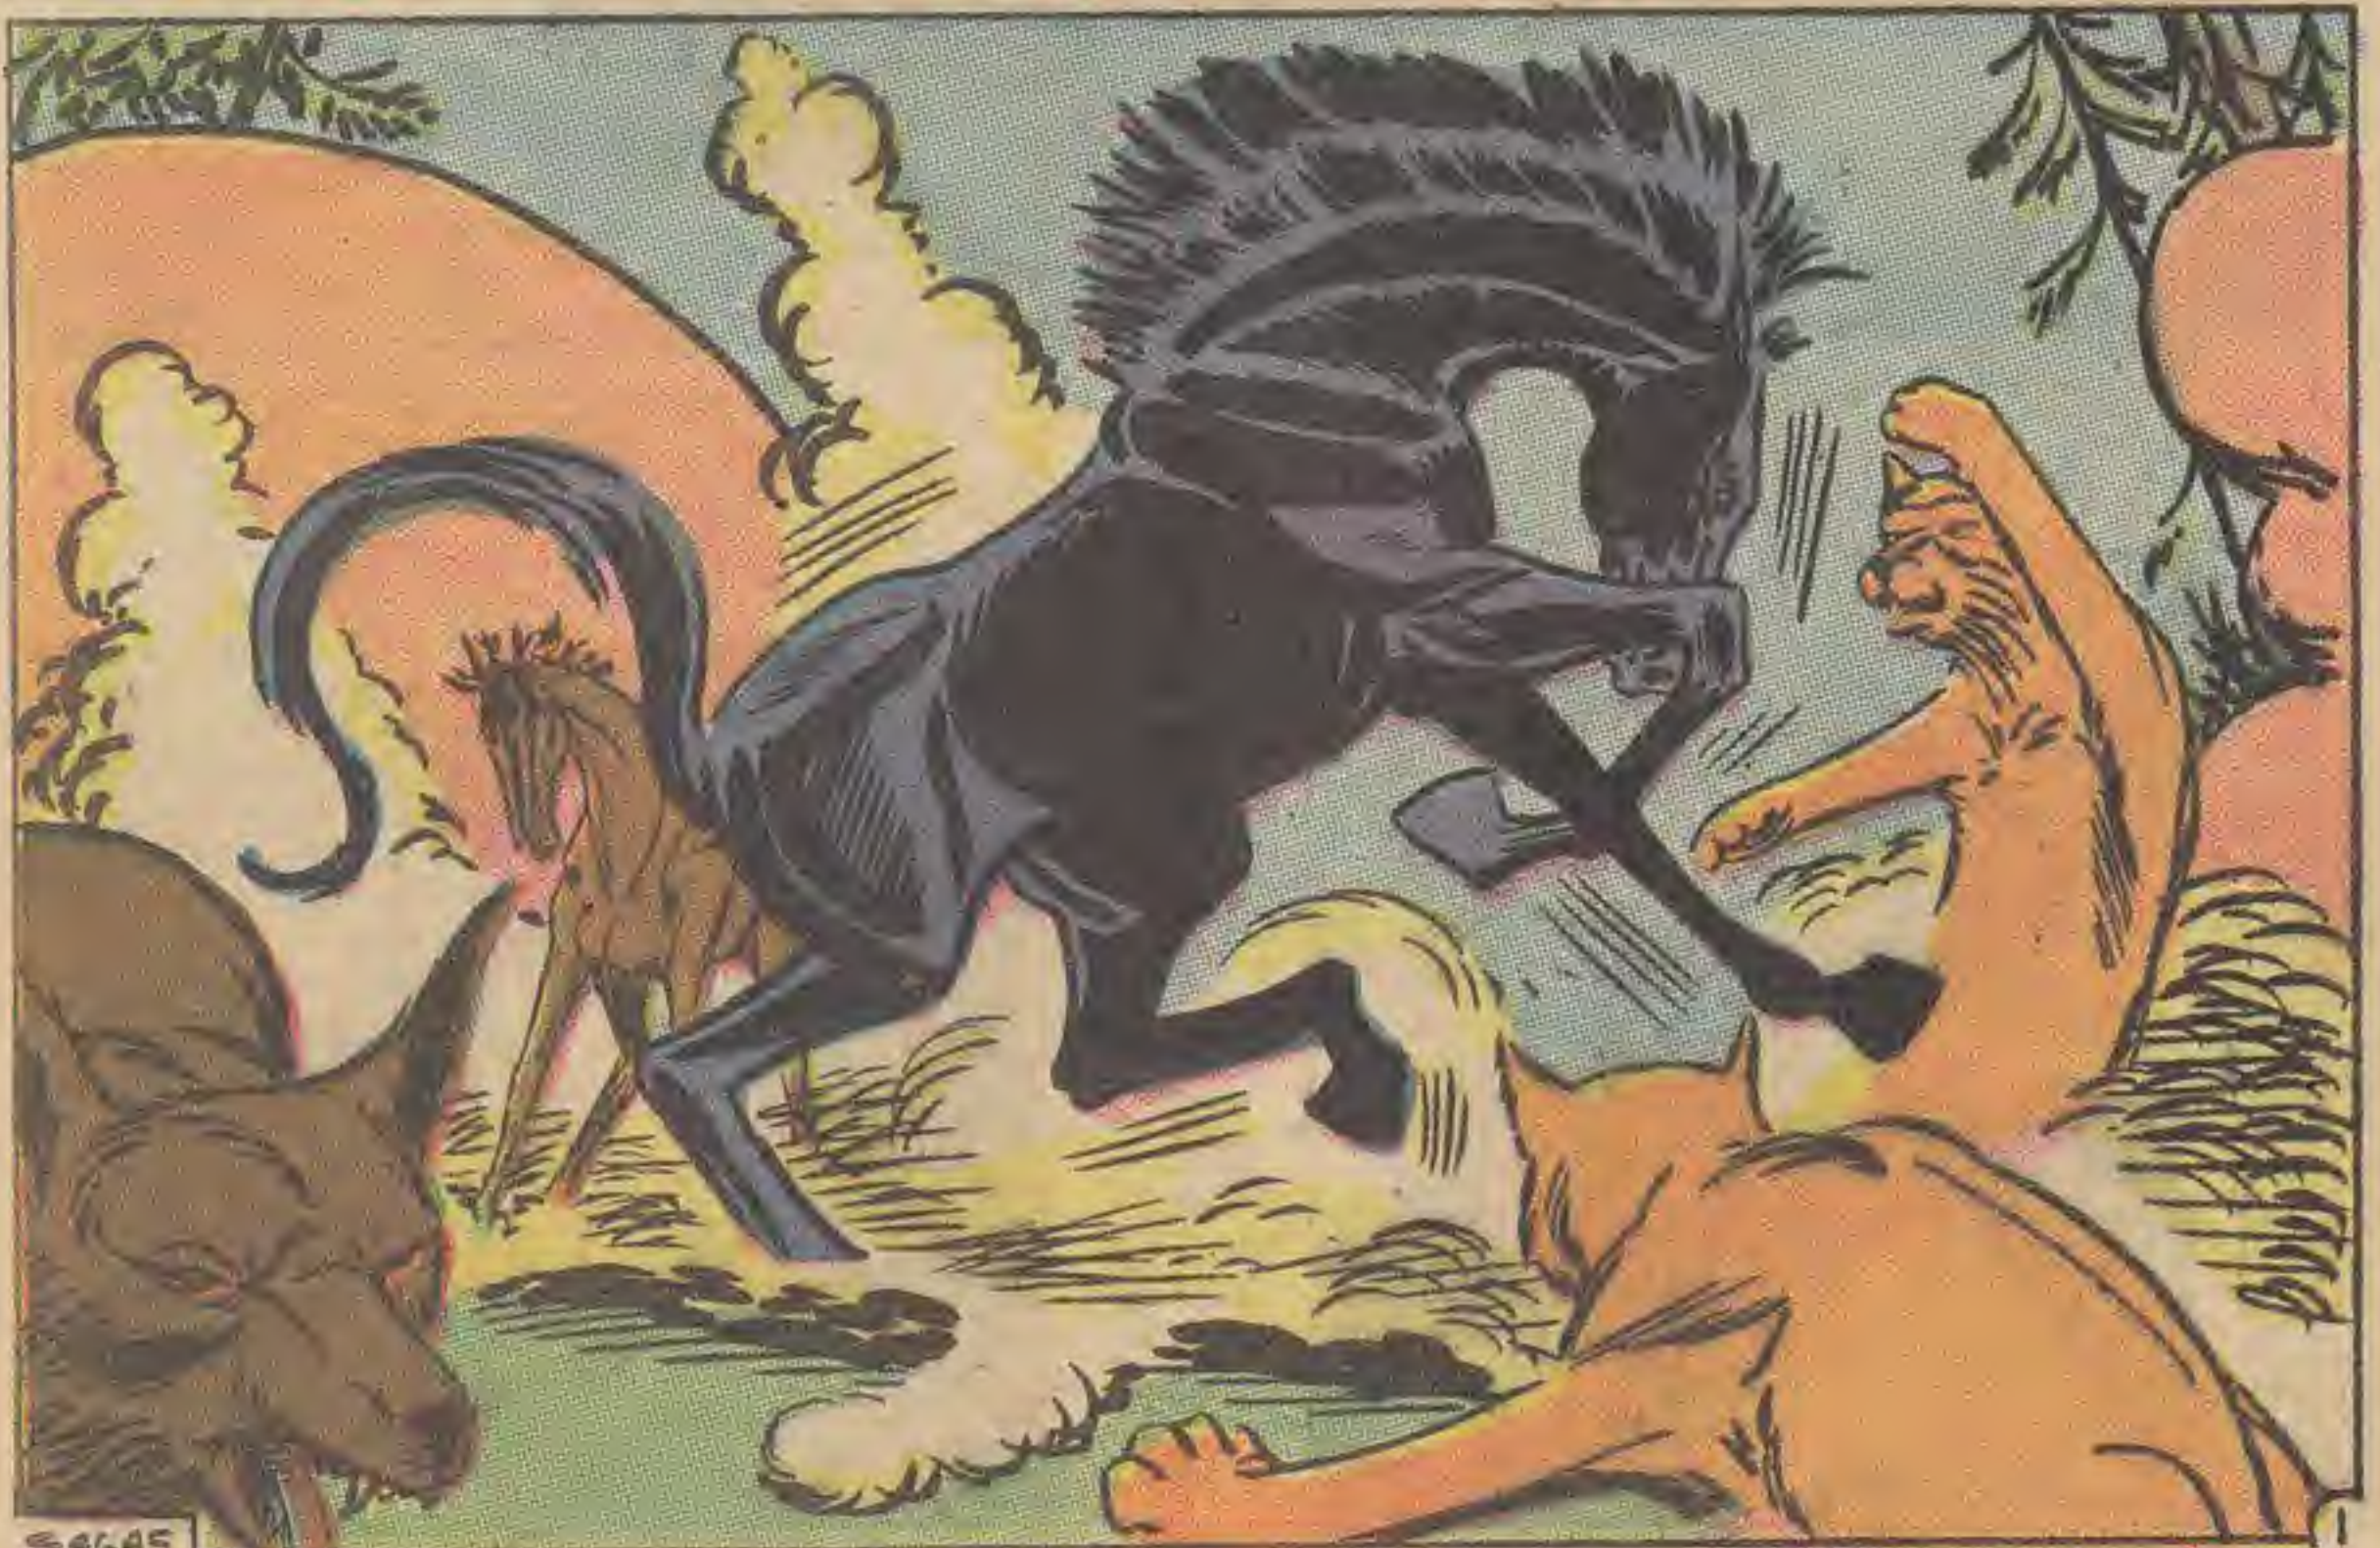

...AND TIMBER WOLVES RAVENOUS AFTER A HARSH WINTER...

THE COLT'S HELPLESSNESS -- HIS PITIFUL NICKERING FOR THE MARE WHO COULDN'T ANSWER, ONLY BROUGHT MORE NATURAL ENEMIES ON THE RUN. BUT ONE LISTENED WHO WAS NOT AN ENEMY -- BLACK FURY HEARD AND KNEW HOW DESPERATELY THE COLT NEEDED HELP. HE CAME AT A FLASHING RUN, JUST IN TIME TO SAVE...

THE COLT BORN TO TROUBLE

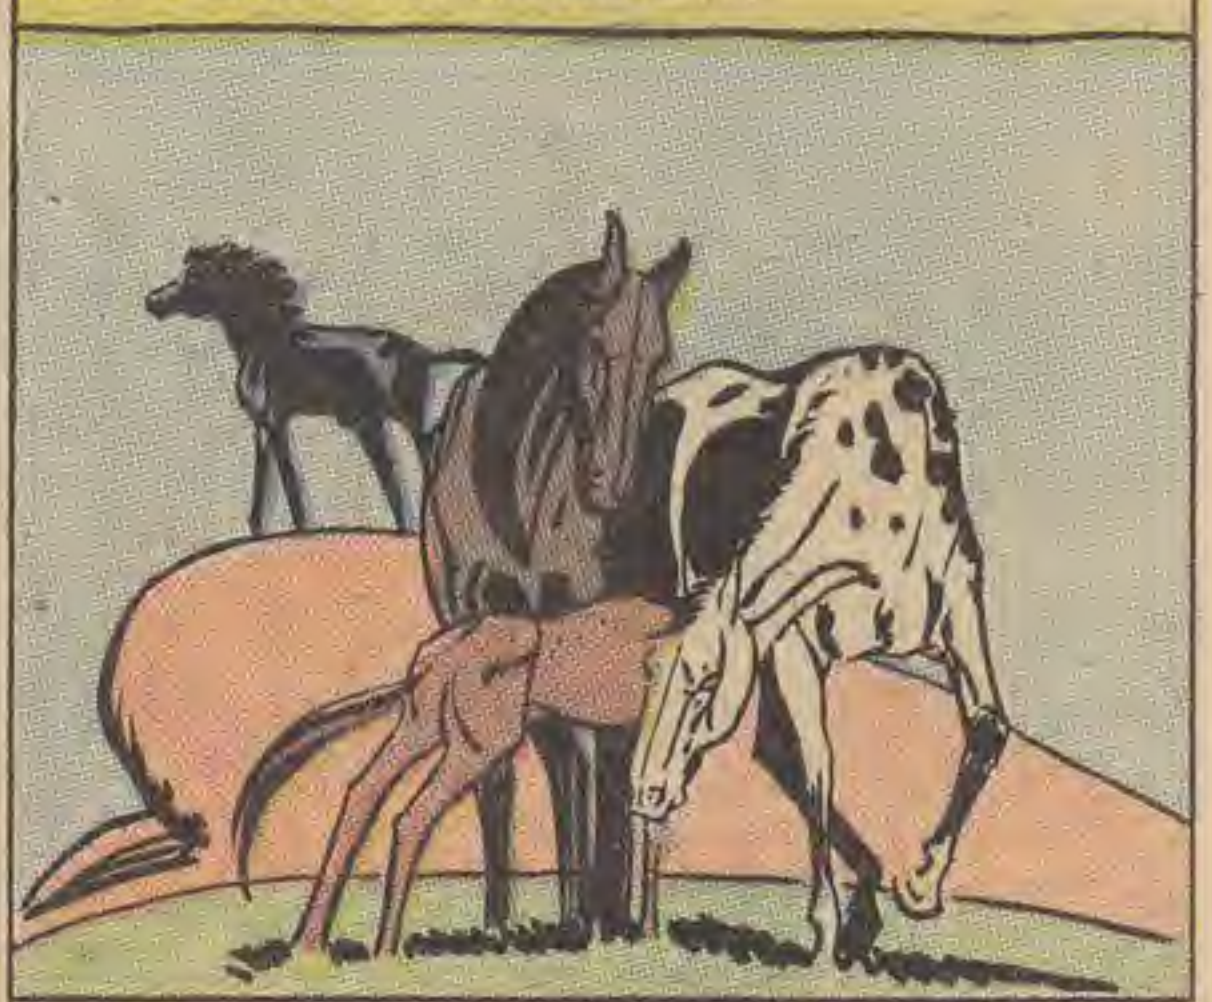

BLACK FURY

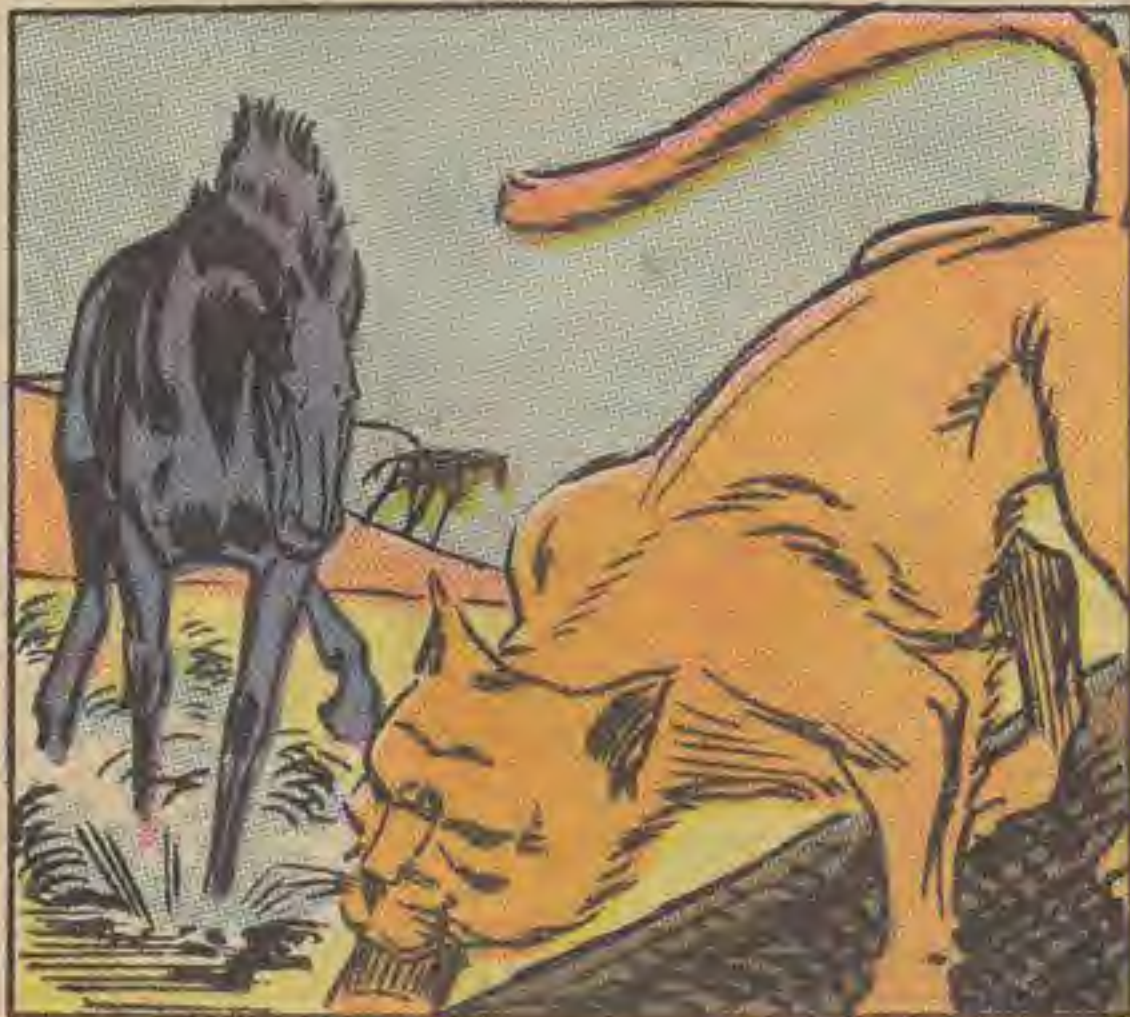

THAT WAS BLACK FURY'S FIRST EXPERIENCE WITH THE COLT! HE HAD TO KEEP HIM UN-HARMED...

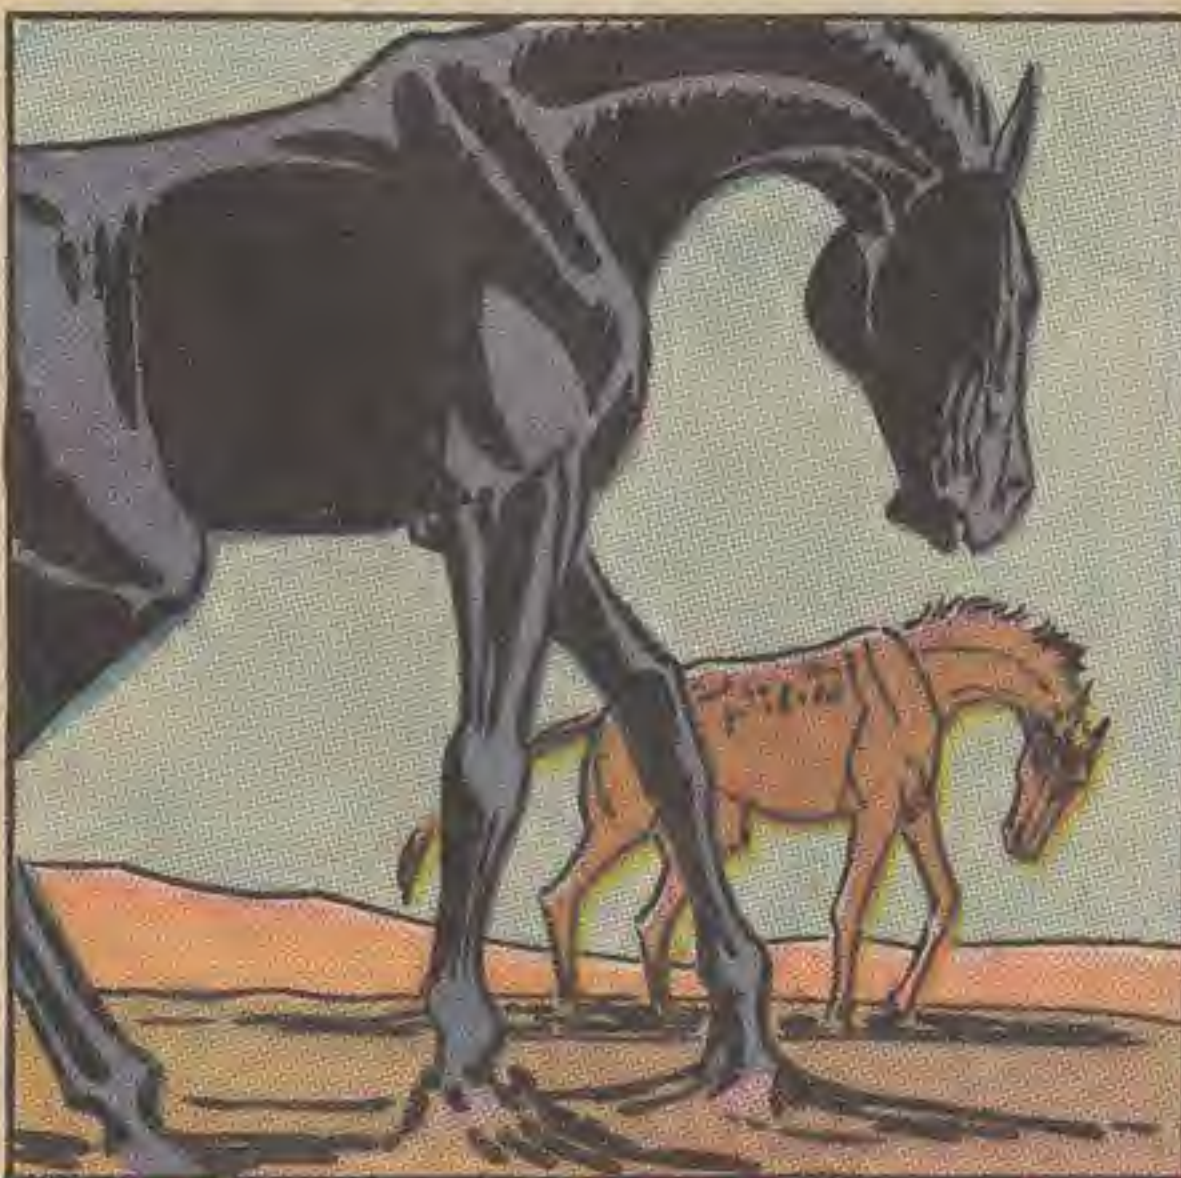

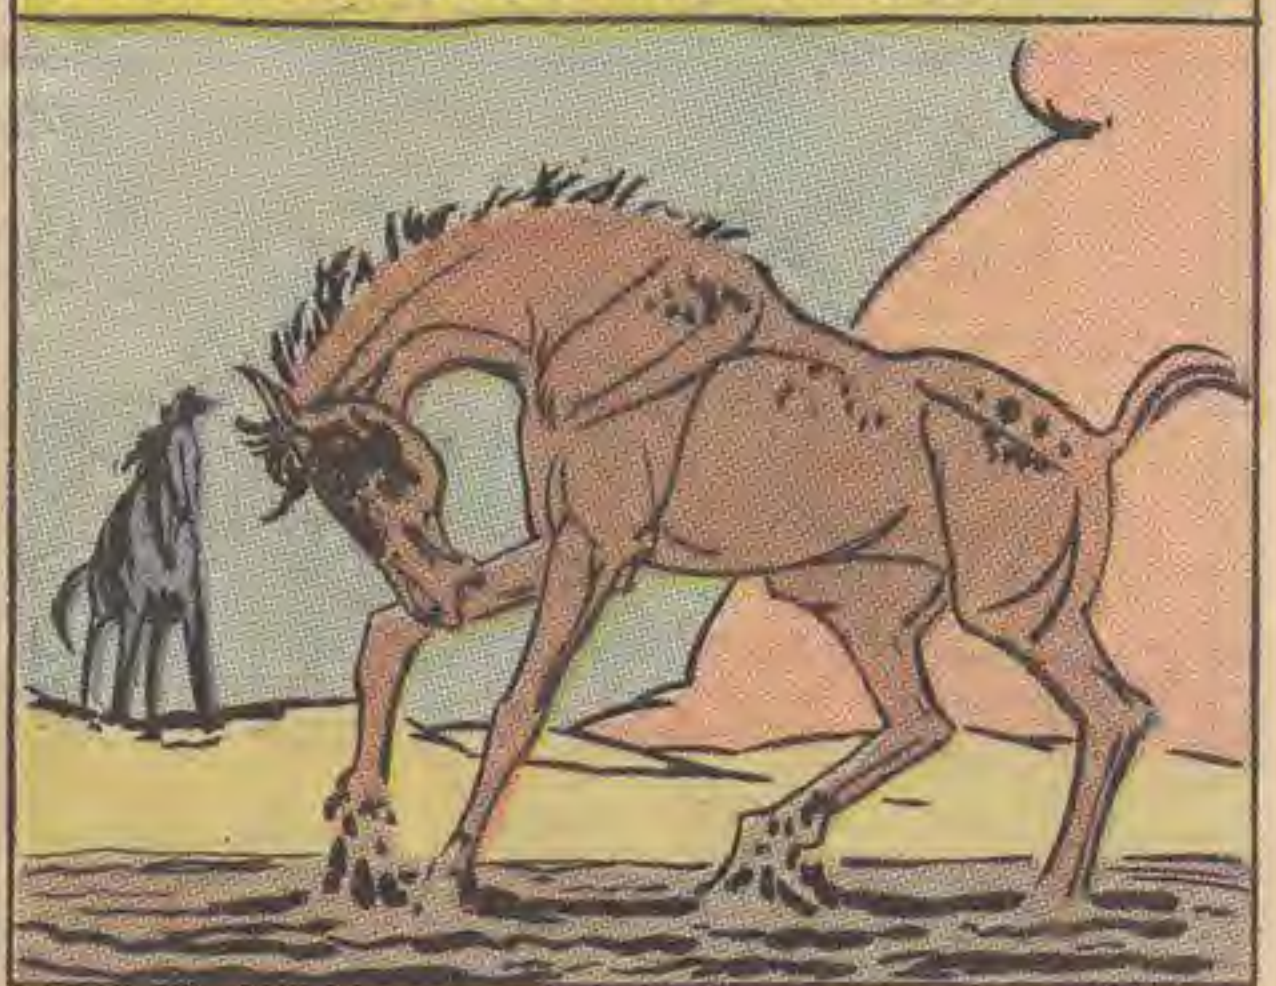

THE COLT HAD TO BE FED! BLACK FURY TRUMPETED HIS CALL AND A MARE AND HER FOAL CAME IN ANSWER...

THE COLT GAINED STRENGTH FAST -- BUT HE STILL NEEDED PROTECTION...

THE BLACK STALLION LEADER SOON LEARNED THAT HE NEEDED MORE WATCHING THAN ANY OTHER SIX COLTS IN THE BUNCH...

THE STRUGGLING COLT WAS SINKING FAST... THE MORE HE STRUGGLED, THE DEEPER HE WENT! ACTING INSTINCTIVELY, THE BLACK STALLION MADE A RUN FOR IT, LEAPED, AND KNOCKED THE COLT FLAT...

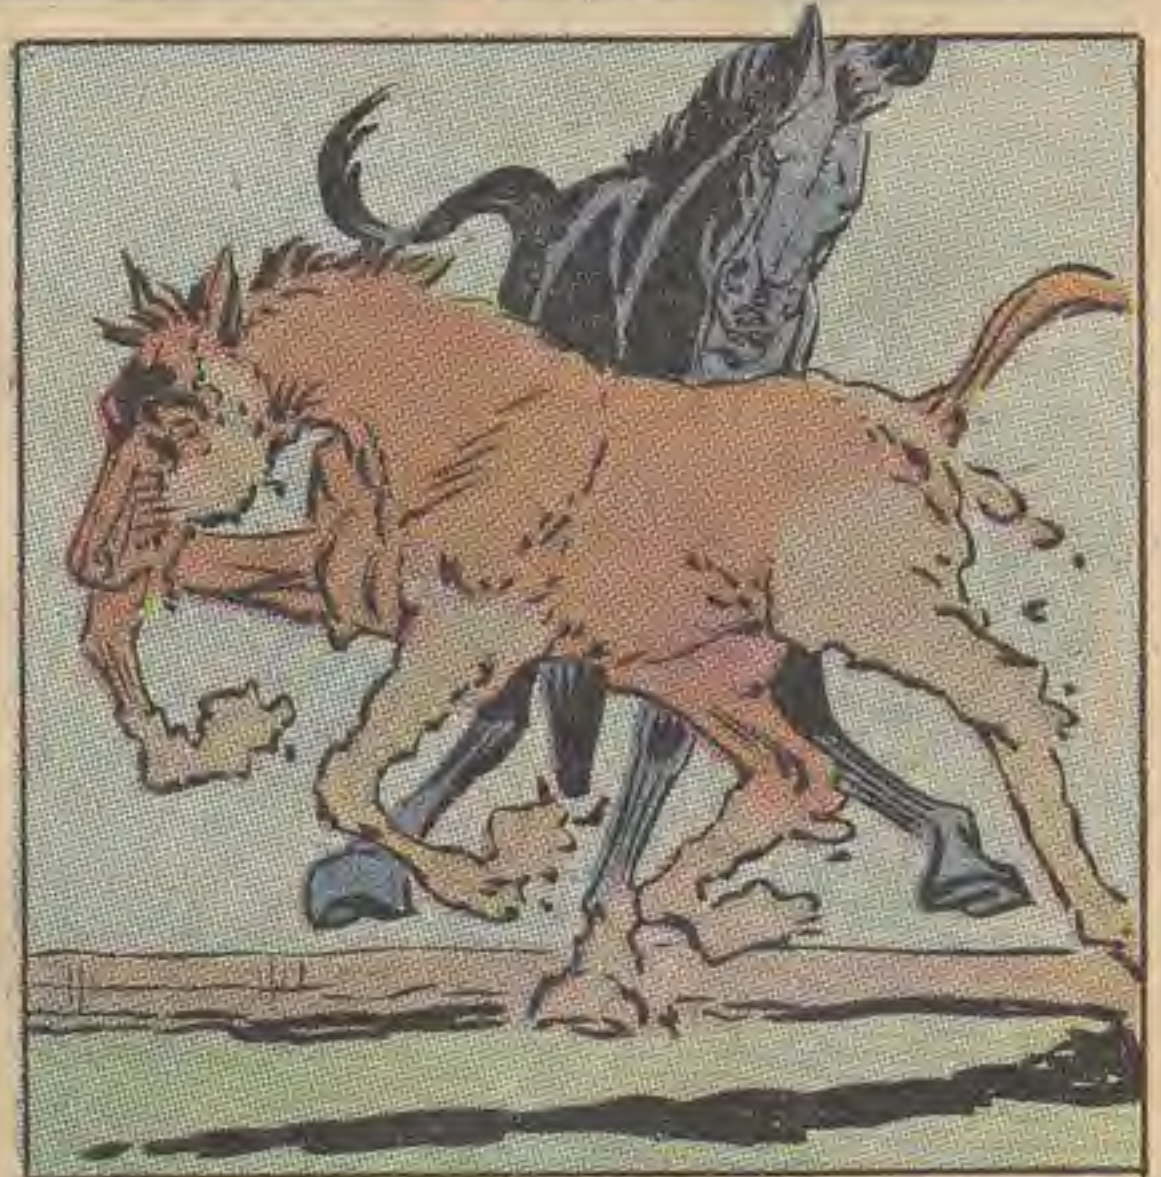

BLACK FURY

THE COLT WAS DOWN--SCARED STIFF, NOT FIGHTING THE QUICKSAND ANY LONGER--AND THAT SAVED HIS LIFE...

BLACK FURY'S FOREFEET WERE MIRED IN THE TREACHEROUS QUICKSAND--BUT HIS POWERFUL REAR LEGS WERE STRAINING TO SAVE THEM BOTH...

BLACK FURY WAS OFTEN ANNOYED BY THE COLT'S CARELESSNESS--BUT HE SAW TO IT THAT HE WASN'T BADLY HURT...

BLACK FURY

OTHER COLTS WOULD HAVE GIVEN HIM THE BEATING HE SEEMED TO NEED -- BUT THEY DIDN'T DARE! WHERE THE COLT WENT, THERE WAS BLACK FURY'S SHADOW OVER HIM, PROTECTING, SHIELDING ...

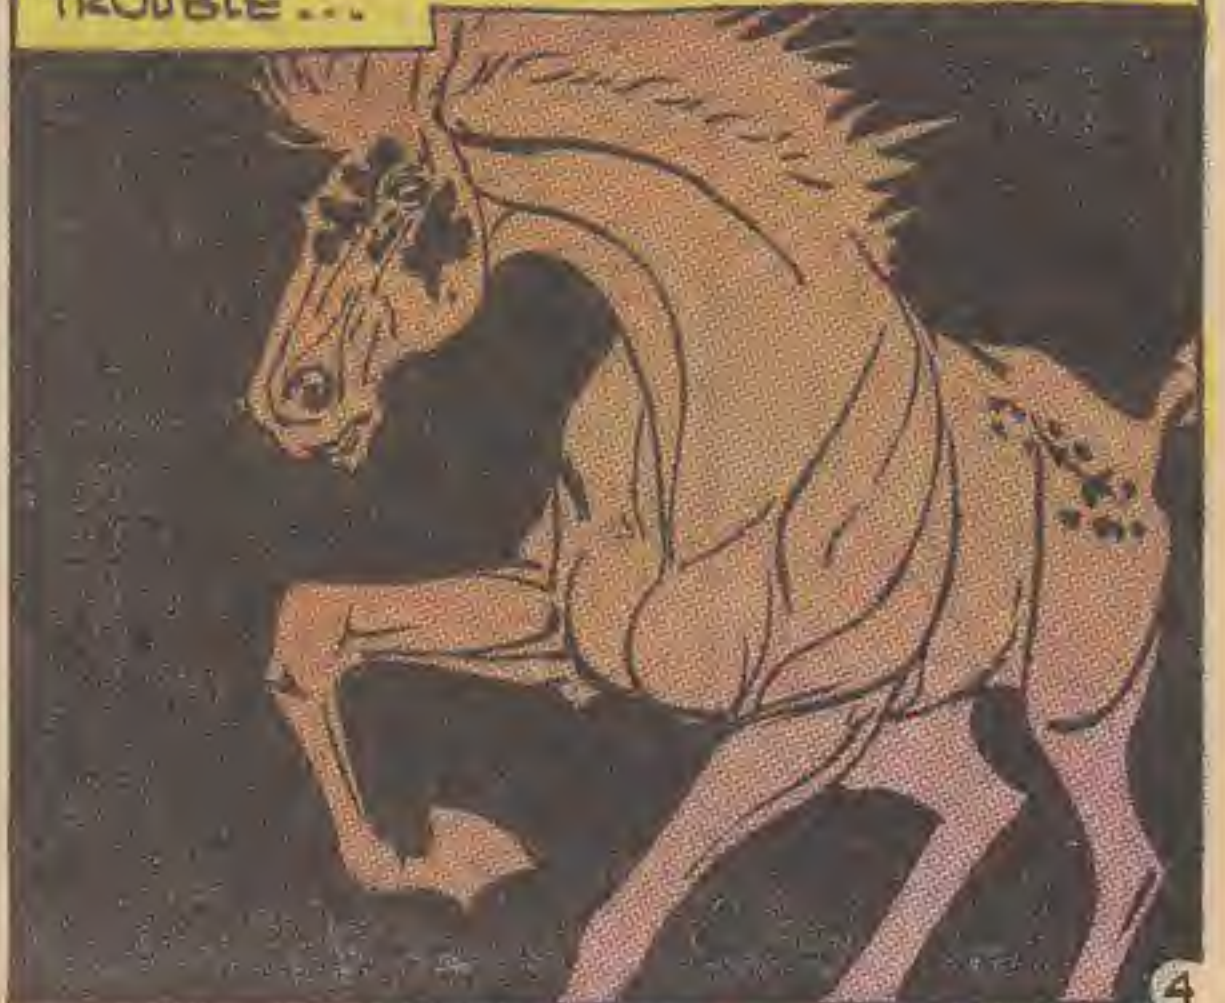

THE MONTHS PASSED -- THE COLT WAS GROWING! BUT HE HADN'T LEARNED CAUTION, AS HAD OTHER YOUNG HORSES HIS AGE! HE'D ALWAYS HAD THE BLACK LEADER, TO HELP -- UNTIL THAT MAY MORNING WHEN HE WAS BIGGER ...

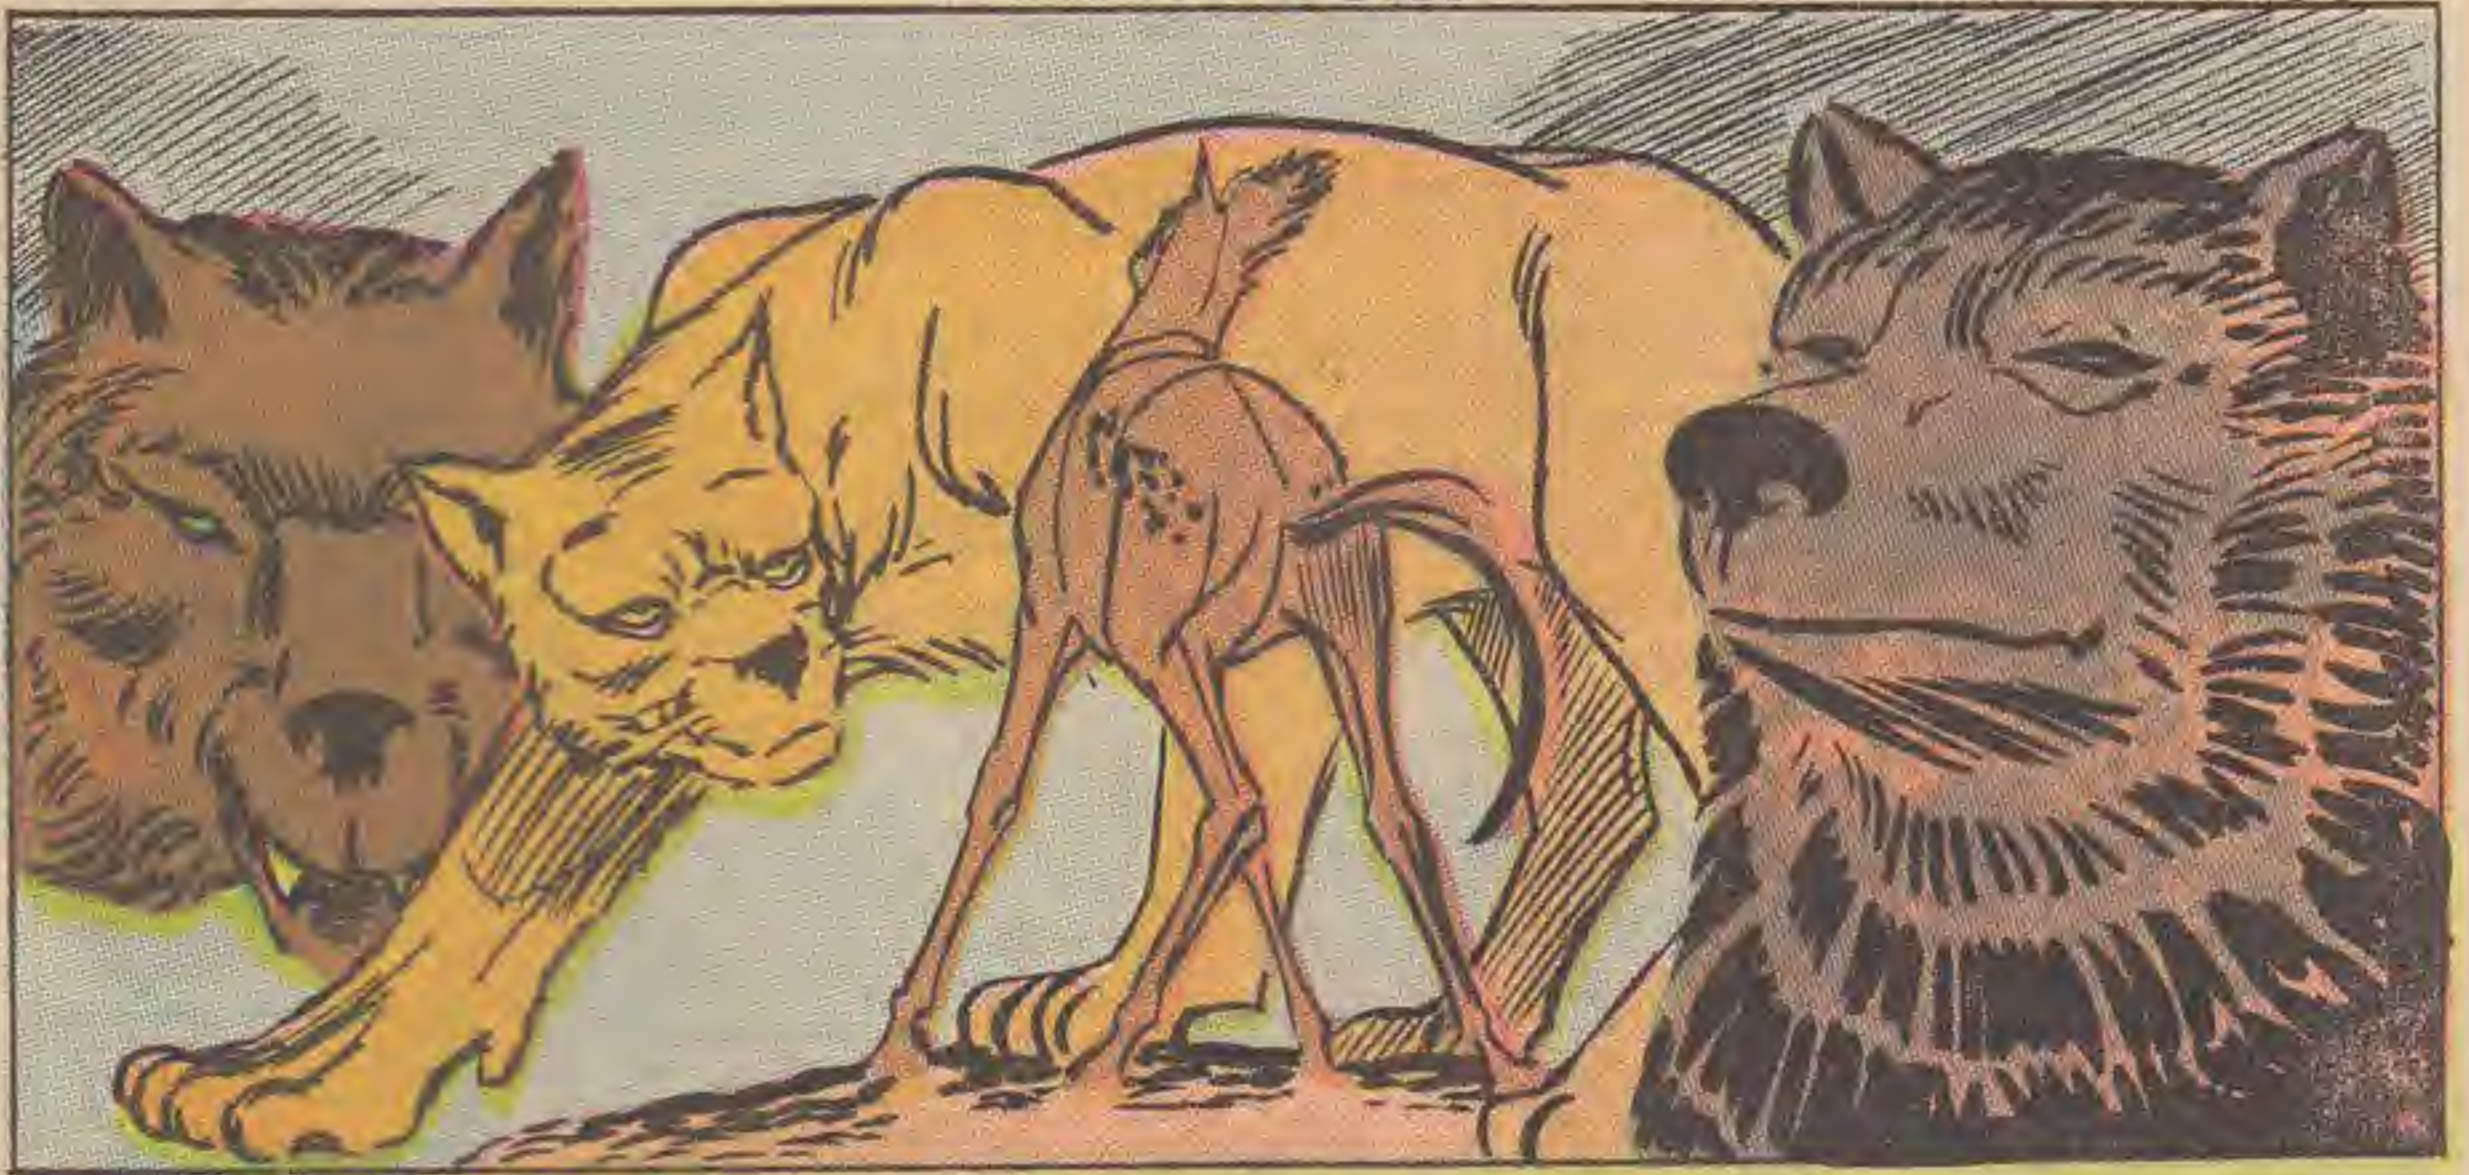

THE COLT KEPT GOING! BLACK FURY DIDN'T TURN HIM BACK -- HE WAS OLD ENOUGH TO TAKE CARE OF HIMSELF ...

HE WAS IN DARK CANYON, THE PLACE OF ENEMIES! BLACK FURY KEPT HIS BUNCH OUT -- THE COLT KNEW IT! AND HE WAS IN TROUBLE ...

BLACK FURY

BLACK FURY HAD DECIDED TO LET THE COLT HANDLE HIS OWN TROUBLES -- BUT HE WAS DOWNWIND OF THE CANYON AND HEARD THE TERRIFYING CHORUS TOO...

THE MOUNTAIN LION, HUNGRIER THAN THE OTHERS, ATTACKED FIRST! THE COLT WAS FRIGHTENED, BUT...

THE WOLVES WERE BLOCKING THE CANYON EXIT! THE COLT RAN AT THEM, HARD HOOF RAZOR SHARP AND MENACING...

THAT LEFT THE SILVER-TIP GRIZZLY -- AND HE WAS TOO WISE TO INVITE TROUBLE JUST THEN! THE GRIZZLY VANISHED IN THE ROCKS...

THE COLT HAD BECOME A HORSE -- IGNORANT OF THE FACT THAT HE'D HAD SOME HELP HE HADN'T KNOWN ABOUT...

My name is Charles Atlas. Of course, I can't promise that you'll win the title of "World's Most Perfectly Developed Man," as I did. But I do say that I believe I can make a mighty powerful He-Man out of you — in a very short time. In fact, you can prove it to yourself in 7 days. At my risk, of course. And I have good reason for believing I can do it. My big free book will tell you how my secret of Dynamic Tension may be able to do such a job for you. Where shall I send your copy? There's not a bit of cost or obligation on your part.
